Steamship Company Musters Entire Fleet as Steel Output Continues To Climb

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND O March 3—A H Ferbert vice president of the Pittsburgh Steamship Co a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corp announced today the company would award contracts for four new 600 foot lake freighters within the next four days

Announcement of what ship building company would get the new contracts was withheld

The company now has 60 lake freighters and six barges

The new ships the first boat construction on the great lakes since the depression will add materially to the tonnage of the steel company

The company announced several days ago that in view of the high rate of steel production it would commission its entire fleet this year

The usual cost of a 600 foot lake freighter is in the neighborhood of one million dollars

During the past several years the company has disposed of a number of old and obsolete ships

The Pittsburgh company is the largest operator of bulk freighters on the great lakes and brings down from the iron ranges of the north all the iron ore tonnage requirements of the United States Steel Corp

Shipping men pointed out that in past years the company has been unable to supply its own ore tonnage requirements with its own boats and let out contracts for iron ore to numerous independent operators.

INDUSTRIES REACH PEAK SINCE 1929

Monthly Business Review Indicates Some Attain Post-Depression High

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND O March 3—Indications that February operations in several industries had attained a post-depression peak were seen today by the federal reserve bank of Cleveland in its monthly business review

Although figures for the month are not yet available the bank said efforts to make up for time lost and to work down some of the unfilled orders contributed to the expansion in manufacturing industry

Steel orders which require from three to 15 weeks before delivery can be made are reported and coal production rose to approximately the 1929 level in the first half of February" the report said

In Cleveland and Toledo employment in January was down nine and six per cent respectively from December Moderate declines were reported at Canton Dayton and Massillon while Cincinnati and Pittsburgh showed little change and at Columbus and Springfield increases were reported

Except at Cleveland where the effect of the automobile labor trouble was quite marked in January higher employment indexes were reported than a year previous the gains ranging from seven to more than 20 per cent."

Steel Union Hails Pact With Carnegie-Illinois As Insurance of Peace

Labels Contract Granting Recognition, Bargaining Rights and General 10 Cents an Hour Raise as Greatest Labor Victory in Nation's History

By The Associated Press

The [illegible] steel industry's momentous move toward better relations with organized labor overshadowed the discord wrought by strikes in scattered sections of the nation today

One after another the big steel corporations announced wage boosts shorter hours and other concessions probably forestalling labor disputes in the entire industry

A contract between the Carnegie Illinois Steel Corp and the steel workers organizing committee an offshoot of the Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization signed last night at Pittsburgh was hailed by union officials as labor's greatest victory

40-Hour Week $5 Day

The contract considered a guarantee of peace in the industry established a 40 hour week and a $5-a day minimum wage and recognized the organizing committee as the bargaining agent for 170,000 employes who are members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron Steel and Tin Workers

Other companies which have announced wage and working adjustments and the number of men involved were

Bethlehem 85,000 Republic 5[illegible],000 Youngstown Sheet & Tube 16,000 Inland 5,000 Pittsburgh Steel 7,000 Sharon Steel 3,000 Otis Steel 3,000 Wheeling Steel 16,000 American Steel & Wire 6,000 Columbia Steel 5,500 National Steel 20,000 National Tube 8,000 Continental Steel Jones & Laughlin Steel 25,000

Organized labor leaders figured the pay boosts would fatten workers pockets by $100,000,000 a year

Two Strikes Settled

Settlement of two strikes involving an estimated 2,500 men further brightened the industrial picture Some 2,000 sitdown strikers evacuated the Detroit plant of the Motor Products Corp after an agreement between the management and the United Automobile Workers of America A five cent an hour pay increase ended a sitdown strike of 500 at the Textile Leather Corp at Toledo O

Numerous other strikes remained unsettled however Waitresses cooks and kitchen hands at a large Detroit restaurant ended their sitdown strike pending negotiations Sitdown demonstrations continu[illegible]

PITTSBURGH March 3 — The steel workers organizing committee triumphantly hailed its treaty [illegible] contract with the Carnegie Illinois Steel Corp today as an historic document which would pave the way for maintenance of peace in the industry

Philip Murray chairman of the committee and right hand lieutenant of John L Lewis told 40 [illegible] or writers called here from [illegible] the document represented labor's greatest victory in the nation's history

Signed last night by Benjamin F Fairless president of the U S Steel Corporation's subsidiary the [illegible]

Recognized the organizing committee formed last June by the Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization as the collective bargaining agent for those of the company's 120,000 employes who [illegible] members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron Steel and Tin Workers

10 Cent Pay Raise

Granted a general pay raise of 10 cents an hour effective March 16 which establishes a $5 a day minimum scale and provided for time and one half pay for all work over eight hours in one day or 40 hours in one week

Created a joint committee of company and union representatives to meet not later than March 10 to effect a more detailed agreement on working conditions application of wage rates hours rule, and a method for adjusting disputes arising under terms of the agreement

The agreement first of such a broad character signed by a major steel company in 45 years—expires at midnight Feb 28 1938

The wage increase which the company also announced for all of its other employes was similar to boosts by employers of more than 375,000 of the industry's 500,000 All concerns are expected to hike their pay scale by March 15

Ends Strike Talk

The wage jump and the granting of recognition to the union by the industry's largest producer definitely scotched all talk here of a possible nationwide steel strike at this time

Murray declared the agreement marked a new milestone in the history of labor relations between employers and employes adding

It paves the way for the maintenance of peace in the industry and is in accord with the announced policies of the Committee for Industrial Organization and steel workers organizing committee to organize steel workers without resorting to the use of strikes violence or industrial disturbances

Steel stocks reflected the optimism of continued high operation by moving up with U S Steel leading the way It advanced 4[illegible] points to $119 yesterday

The national rate of operations moved up this week to 85 per cent of capacity the highest since October 1929

Expects Others to Sign

Murray's blunt statement after the conference that he had received assurance all producing units of U S Steel's giant empire which employes 250,000 workers will sign a similar contract with his union attracted the industry's close attention

The union proposals laid before the company Monday was reported to have included one which would have given it the right to speak for all the company's workers provided the supreme court validated the national labor relations board's interpretation of the Wagner bill

This interpretation was that the majority representatives are the bargaining agents

One immediate effect of the reduction in weekly working hours was to pave the way for bids on steel needed by the navy Companies had declined to take government contracts because the Walsh Healey act stipulated they must be executed by workers on

Win Recognition

The employes returned to work today under an agreement which provided a [illegible] per cent increase in the piece work rate and recognition of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers union

Peace moves were reported progressing in another Cleveland dispute in which all moving vans were idle as 500 union movers sought a new contract with operators

No negotiations were scheduled in a walkout of ironworkers there yesterday which halted erection of steel girders on Republic Steel Corporation's new $15,000,000 continuous strip mill

Other building workers continued on the job as about 75 men failed to report for work after unsuccessful negotiations between the union and the building trades employers association for a pay increase from $55 to $10 a week

Toledo Sitdown Ends

Work resumed last night at the Textile Corp plant at Toledo after a sitdown strike was ended by an agreement which company spokesmen and officials of the United Textile workers said granted an immediate wage increase of five cents an hour The sitdown, affecting approximately 500 employes started Feb 25

Indications of Increased Earnings Seen in Early Rush Handled By Federal Deputy Collector.

More people are earning more money in Marion—at least it seems that way to M C Grant of Columbus deputy collector of internal revenue, who is now at the courthouse assisting residents in making out income tax returns. Yesterday people filed into his temporary office in the law library in a continuous stream from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. to make what has been his busiest second day here in the five or six years he has been coming to Marion.

All married persons making more than $2,500 net income should file.

Any person in a business or profession should file if gross annual profits exceed $5,000

Sharp debate preceded senate passage of the McIntyre bill to prohibit the use of criminal evidence obtained through unlawful search and seizure The legislation arose from a state supreme court decision that such evidence was admissible

The Boston tea party said Sen Earl T McIntyre Democrat of Cuyahoga resulted from laws such as this which the supreme court has tried to foist upon the state It is time that if the courts will not protect the sanctity of our homes we in the legislature should have the courage to do so

FINAL ACTION NEXT

Opposing Groups Headed by Mayor Smith and R. M Wilhelm, Chairman of Bar Committee

BY W. T. BUCHANAN
Marion Star City Editor

The Marion municipal court bill to increase the stipulated salary of the court bailiff from $900 to $1,800 a year and to make mandatory employment of a deputy clerk at a salary of $1,500 a year moved a step nearer final action in the state legislature last night when the house judiciary committee approved the bill and recommended it out for passage

The action was taken at a hearing in Columbus and followed similar action by the senate judiciary committee about 10 days ago The bill now is awaiting final action in both houses Time for vote on the floors of the house and senate is indefinite

The action of the committee last night was unanimous with exception of one of the 10 members who did not vote

A large delegation of proponents and opponents of the measure attended the hearing The proponents principally Marion attorneys who have supported the bill sponsored by William R Martin municipal court judge were headed by R M Wilhelm chairman of a committee of the Marion County Bar association Mayor Smith was spokesman for the opponents who included several councilmen

Explained by Almendinger

The hearing [illegible] with Samuel Almendinger of Prospect Marion county representative explaining the purpose and content of the bill Mr Almendinger introduced the bill in the house at the request of court officials

Mr Almendinger explained the nature of the measure and told briefly of the history of the municipal court He declared he had personally investigated the court's work and had found that it had returned a balance of earnings over expenditures of $17,607.79 in the 10 years of its operation He also told the committee the court had handled more than 15,000 civil and criminal cases not including more than 600 wage assignments and traffic cases The purpose of the measure is to stabilize the staff of the court he said

As sponsor of the measure Mr Almendinger was called upon by the committee chairman to introduce the speakers for and against the bill

Statement by Wilhelm

Mr Wilhelm opened the arguments for the bill In the past he told the committee it has been the custom to employ two deputy clerks and we are now asking that employment of one be made mandatory As for the bailiff it has been the custom to pay him on a basis of $1,800 a year although the law sets the minimum at $900 Out of his salary he maintains an automobile for use in his work

In response to a question from a member of the committee as to whether council had ever taken any action inimical to the court, Mr Wilhelm declared that during the 10 years the court has been in existence no city administration has ever impeded its operation until now 'The present administration" he said, wants to pay the bailiff $900 and eliminate the position of deputy clerk"

In conclusion he said "Our only reason for bringing this action is to prevent any future administration from making a political football of the court"

Howard F Guthery was the only other speaker for the measure, Mr Guthery told the committee he was a member of the special committee of the bar association and also represented by proxy Dr. C. J. Altmaier, chairman of the Marion county Democratic executive committee. "Also here tonight," he said, "is the Republican chairman." He referred to Bud H. Lawson who had accompanied proponents of the measure to Columbus.

"This is not a political measure," Mr Guthery declared. "All we want is to have the court function efficiently. Both parties are behind the bill."

Mayor Explains Stand

Reading a prepared statement Mayor Smith spoke at considerable length in opposition to the bill. The mayor said he represented the city administration and cited a resolution adopted by city council recently which in effect opposed the bill. "I am quite certain that I also represent the vast majority of the citizens of Marion," he said.

"I categorically deny," Mayor Smith said, "that our administration has interfered in the least with the municipal court of Marion in any sense which could be reasonably construed as having

FARM GROUP BACK FROM CONFERENCE

Marion County Representatives Attend District Soil Conservation Meeting

County Farm Agent S L Anderson and other members of the county soil conservation committee returned yesterday from a district meeting of committees at Norwalk and reported progress on the 1937 program throughout the district. All farmers probably will be notified of their soil depleting and conserving bases and their corn acreage limits before April 1 in time for them to plan their spring crops in accordance with the soil work, Mr Anderson said.

Marion county committeemen are Dr C P Harper of Green Camp, J E Harris of LaRue, Homer Kile of 125 East Center street and F G Montgomery of Agosta.

Marion county farmers who last year participated to the extent of 79 per cent of the tillable land in the county will be notified of their bases the last part of this month in a series of education meetings in various townships Mr Anderson said.

Maps have been drawn to scale for every participating farm in the county in preparation for computation of individual bases Mr Anderson said. The 79 per cent participation here last year is well above the state average he believes.

LOVE AS THANKSGIVING

Wednesday March 3— Tha s be unto God for his unspeakable gift Read II Corinthians 9:8-15

Some time ago a man came up to me after church and said For years now I have been listening to you ministers telling me that I ought to love God But I have no idea what that word means or how to go about it"

One of the difficulties of course is this that love is an elemental word and that such words cannot be defined Elements are substances you start with they are themselves incapable of reduction int anything simpler Words of this kind are the beginning of thought and speech Though you cannot define them you can describe them

The late Professor Burkitt of Cambridge university—one of the most devout and learned scholars of our time once said that he thought the meaning of Agape is better expressed by II Cor 9 15 than by any other single passage in the New Testament Love is in the first instance gratitude to God for His very being The idea though novel in this connection is not unintelligible How often has our love for some one else been expressed as I am glad that you are there

Prayer Almighty God who art and who are the rewarder of them that diligently seek thee we give thee thanks that going forward o ek sailing to the right hand or to the left thou dost from all sides encompass us Amen

Ruch was slugged Sunday with a piece of wash bowl.

WASHINGTON, March 3—Rep. Johnson, Democrat of Oklahoma, spokesman for a group of house Democrats wanting to increase the civilian conservation corps permanently to 400,000, predicted today that "congress will find the money."

BUNKERS ON THE LOVE-COURSE

Then an obscure young man succeeds in marrying a gilded society heiress he becomes a famous person of absolutely no importance.

Many a girl's cruelest memory is that of her first "crush" when she wasted so many of her days going around places trying to meet her dream-man "accidentally."

The average man is most meticulous about finding out "how many miles to the gallon" when he's pricing a car—but he seldom bothers to inquire "how many years to the marriage" when he's proposing to a girl.

Very few divorce lawyers would run about in imported limousines if every marriage license contained a line in large type, reading: "No mistakes rectified after leaving the altar."

Many a man who lazily wrote "I love you" in the Florida sands last January will reneg when it comes to following it up by writing his name in plain ink across a marriage certificate—in June.

Professional success and a lot of money are what enable a woman to discard three or four husbands and still be considered merely "unfortunate" or "capricious."

Half the time, when a girl gazes dreamily into her fiance's eyes she is thinking how wonderful he is—and the other half she is planning how she will remodel him in "all those little ways" after the wedding.

Psychoanalysis will never lose its popularity as long as it gives a woman a chance to talk about herself for an hour at a time to a man who hasn't got his nose buried in a newspaper.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. • Soft-feeling bread is not necessarily fresh bread.

Here is a plan that answers once and for all a question many women have asked: "How can I be sure that the bread I buy is always really fresh?"

Everyone prizes that first fine aroma and flavor of oven-fresh bread. Now you can have this delicate goodness day after day, week after week—without fail.

The freshness of Omar 800 Bread is certified—protected by two unique safeguards. This is the Omar plan:

Each evening all unsold Omar baked goods are stripped from every delivery wagon or truck. These baked goods are sold at reduced prices through a special store maintained by us for that purpose.

The Omar 800 Bread you buy is brought direct to your door by a uniformed service man. You get it at its peak of freshness. Hail Omar, your baker man next time he passes your door.

TUNE IN! Omar's Mary Baker program, Station WBNS, 12:15-1:00 P. M. every day except Sundays.

a on and op- her fellowship a most district ne Christian a to approxi of the Marion association ng last night b terian church phal of Phila president of of Commerce o Marion. a ector of adult the work of the Presbyterian board of education spoke to the men on "Our Higher Fellowship." The address and business session in the main auditorium followed a dinner in the recreation room.

Men were present from Belle Center, Bellefontaine, Berlin, Bucyrus, Chesterville, Crestline, Degraff, Delaware, Marion, Galion, Iberia, Forest, Marseilles, Marysville, Mt. Gilead, Old Stone church near Delaware, Ostrander, Upper Sandusky and Urbana.

Speaking of the higher fellowship Rev. Westphal termed it the most profound experience, a supreme achievement because it means working together, striving together for a common cause until our fellowship becomes a fellowship with Jesus Christ.

Fellowship Begins

Fellowship began, he said, when Jesus of Nazareth called 12 men and said "Come learn of me."

"I think," he said, "He called them not for their sakes alone but for His own. He had something to give them but each of them had something for Him too.

"As they gave themselves in loyalty to their Teacher and their lives were transformed by that fellowship eleven of them went out and transformed the world in which we live."

Rev. Westphal spoke of fellowship as one of the distinctive notes of the Christian life and said that a normal rich Christian life cannot be lived in isolation because fellowship means living with other people.

He expressed the belief that Jesus' most terrible hours were not the hours of Good Friday but the hours when the fellowship He had given His life for was broken and the disciples deserted Him. But, he continued, Pentecost restored the fellowship when the disciples became one in a new sense with a new power.

"Can you think of a greater privilege than in living your life in fellowship with Christ and men and women who love Him so that they live in him?" he asked.

The obligation of the Christian fellowship, he said, is to live so that men do not pass on with a strange expression in their eyes having seen gray faces and said to themselves "if what you have found makes you what you are I don't want it."

"The test," he said, "is the way we live our lives in relation to God and to each other.

"If we avail ourselves of the privilege and undertake the obligation we reach the opportunity," he said.

In closing Rev. Westphal traced a history of the Presbyterian laymen's organization from its inception in 1906 at the general assembly in Indianapolis when the Presbyterian Brotherhood of America was launched.

Heads Business Session

Frank G. McCracken of Bellefontaine, president of the association, presided for a short business session which opened with a roll call of churches by Altman Smith of Bellefontaine, secretary. J. E. Bishop of the First church gave a short report on the inter-church visitation committee's work and Rev. Edward Ziegler, new pastor of the Bellefontaine church was introduced.

Upper Sandusky was selected as the place of the next meeting which will be held early in May.

The meeting closed with the singing of "God Be With You Til We Meet Again," a favorite hymn of J. B. Bray of the First church and selected as a mark of appreciation for his work as chairman of the committee in charge. Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor of First Church pronounced the benediction.

Mr. Bray, who was assisted in arranging for the meeting by Mr. Bishop and E. A. LaBeau, presided for the dinner and program.

Mr. Lewis, in welcoming the men, said he did not present the key to the city "because so many individuals have used it in the last year that we have thrown open the doors and thrown away the key." He spoke of Marion's upturn in industrial activity and praised the work of laymen in carrying on church activities. He referred to the group as "a great power in creating friends among church organizations."

A quartet composed of L. G. Jones, P. O. Bieser, Howard Orr and Forrest Hill, sang "Guide Me O Thou Great Jehovah," by Prothero and "Little David Play On Your Harp," a Negro spiritual. The singing was without accompaniment.

Group singing at dinner and during the program was led by Don A. Howard with Edgar Barnhart at the piano.

Dinner was served at long tables lighted by candles and decorated in green and white of the St. Patrick's day season and bouquets of cut flowers.

John H. Bartram asked the blessing at the table preceding the serving of the dinner by women of the missionary society under the direction of Mrs. Frank D. Annen.

Announcement was made in the business session of a men's banquet May 29 in Columbus at a meeting of the general assembly.

SPEAKER DESCRIBES TERMITES' ATTACK

Rotary Club Hears Talk on "Hidden Enemies," Illustrated With Movie

Damage done to buildings by termites and need of safeguards against the devastating pests were described to members of the Marion Rotary club yesterday by an expert on the subject. The speaker was Samuel Dowlin, a member of the Columbus Rotary club and representative of a company specializing in termite prevention and extermination.

The talk, illustrated with a motion picture showing how termites breed and work, was given at Hotel Harding following the weekly Rotary luncheon. Mr. Dowlin's subject was "Hidden Enemies."

Although there are approximately 50 species of termites in the United States and about 2000 in different parts of the world, 95 per cent of those in this section of the country are the subterranean type, Mr. Dowlin said. They colonize in the ground and work from there up through the foundations of buildings and into the woodwork of their floors. They do not go beyond the first floor as nearness to the ground is necessary in order that they can have contact with the ground moisture essential for their existence.

They feed not only upon wood but upon paper, cloth and any other material containing cellulose. Although seen occasionally in the open, termites almost invariably work under cover and for that reason can do extensive damage before detected, Mr. Dowlin said.

Deforestation is one of the major causes of the spread of termites to buildings, he declared. The explanation of this is that the destructive insect was created originally to consume old and dead trees and that with removal of trees termites have turned their attack to man made structures.

Mr. Dowlin described methods of lumber treatment used to ward off termite attacks. He also recommended metal shields for tops of foundations and said making the upper layer of foundations solid concrete is effective protection.

The speaker was introduced by Clarence O. Brown, Rotary club program chairman for March.

Too Much Tension

Among persons supporting President Roosevelt's judicial reorganization plan are some who believe anything to diminish the supreme court's prestige is worth while. The tense expectancy which hung over the supreme court Monday must have gratified them.

Tension was due mainly to the possibility of a ruling in the cases testing constitutionality of the national labor relations act. Whatever the court's opinion turns out to be it will have direct bearing on the issue raised by the President's attack on the nine justices.

This is not a healthful atmosphere for the conduct of judicial deliberation. Even though the court's members have given no sign they are affected by it they undoubtedly are aware of the use which will be made of their ruling in the labor act cases.

Part of the damage already has been done no matter what finally happens to Mr Roosevelt's judicial reorganization plan. Destructionists who want the court's prestige to be destroyed at any cost can see possibilities of damage they didn't dare to dream of during the campaign.

Isolation Ward

While European powers go about their grim burlesque of tacking up signs on the Spanish border warning themselves to stay out unnumbered millions of people are entertaining their own doubts about the possibility of preventing war epidemics by establishing isolation wards.

Widely published photographs of Germans Frenchmen Englishmen Russians etc parading in gas masks asbestos suits and leather boots are prodding these doubts. For the photographs are not of soldiers but of civilians in Berlin Paris London and Moscow getting ready for the next war.

It is in short already a recognized fact that the day when war can be confined to an area or to professional killers is past and gone. Of all the reasons for keeping the peace which have been stated in the postwar (or is it the prewar?) period certainly that civilians will be choked by gas burned with liquid fire and torn by aerial bombs is the most convincing.

In The Middle

Eugene L Vidal is little more than a name to the country at large but a name heard oftener than others of the same bureaucratic level in Washington. That's because it was young Mr Vidal's job to direct the bureau of air commerce. He will be 42 years old in April.

Whenever there was an aviation accident which might be blamed on the bureau of air commerce Director Vidal was put on the spot. He was in the middle and he knew it. Commercial airlines blamed him for their trouble; politicians began to consider him a liability. As one of his kindlier critics said the system was all wrong.

It is therefore no surprise to hear of young Mr Vidal's resignation. The only surprise is that he never slipped before on one of the banana peelings suggestively placed in his path. For various reasons many persons didn't want him around.

Lawrence On Child Labor Bill

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1937 by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON March 3—One of the principal arguments [illegible] against [illegible] the federal Congress [illegible] general efforts [illegible] of the [illegible] have been [illegible] for a child labor amendment.

The statement is frequently made that the child labor amendment was submitted by congress in 1924 and has not been ratified yet. An examination of the facts reveals that the child labor amendment was [illegible] by [illegible] states within three years after it was submitted by a [illegible] vote of congress.

[illegible] the child labor amendment came within [illegible] the same period of time as has [illegible] other amendments [illegible].

What is [illegible] about the record on the child labor amendment is that proponents of the reform [illegible] legislatures [illegible] 1933 [illegible] also [illegible] after the original [illegible] when 1924 [illegible] states [illegible] ratified the amendment [illegible] of them were 1933 so that what has happened is the equivalent of a second submission.

It was President Roosevelt's [illegible] of the child labor reform in the NRA in 1933 which gave impetus to the movement for a constitutional amendment and it is interesting to note that among the [illegible] states which have ratified are many which originally rejected the amendment.

As for the record on rejections of the child labor amendment, it appears that since 1923 there have been a total of 41 rejections. Of these 11 came in [illegible] seven in [illegible] 19 in 1925 and four in 1927.

Dormant Nine Years

The interval of about nine years when the issue was relatively dormant would naturally be regarded as having ended the fight for that period. If the child labor amendment had contained a clause such as has been tacked on to other amendments requiring ratification within seven years after submission in order to be operative there would have been no controversy today as to the length of time it takes to get amendments to the federal Constitution through the states.

There is indeed some question whether the present child labor proposal would be valid as a part of the federal Constitution if eight more states would ratify it. One point in dispute is whether a state once having rejected ratification may change its mind. Most authorities argue that ratification is the final step and that refusal to ratify is merely refusal to act and hence does not prejudice the final position of a state. The other point namely that action must take place within a reasonable time after submission by congress to the states is not so easy to determine. A supreme court decision—the case was Dillon vs Gloss—is often cited to support the contention that ratification must be within a reasonable time to be valid. The unanimous opinion of the court follows in part:

We do not find anything in Article V of the Constitution which suggests that an amendment once proposed is to be open for ratification for all time or that ratification in some of the states may be separated from that in others by many years and yet be effective. We do find that which strongly suggests the contrary. First proposal and ratification are not treated as unrelated acts but as succeeding steps in a single endeavor the natural inference being that they are not to be widely separated in time.

[illegible] years after there is deemed to be a [illegible] for the amendments [illegible] which they are [illegible] of [illegible] about the expression of the approval of the people and [illegible] effect [illegible] there is a fair implication that it must be sufficiently contemporaneous in that number of states to reflect the will of the people in all sections at relatively the same period which of course ratification scattered through a long series of years would not do.

Points To Past Proposals

It may be [illegible] pointed out that several amendments to the federal Constitution which [illegible] by congress [illegible] they were submitted [illegible] two of [illegible] in 1789 and [illegible] in 1810 and [illegible] would be a [illegible] to argue that the states could [illegible] act on [illegible].

Since 1924 when the child labor amendment was approved by congress the placing of a seven year limit on ratification or rejection has been [illegible] an established precedent with respect to other proposed amendments.

For these reasons it would appear that proponents of child labor reform would probably be better off if they [illegible] congress to pass a [illegible] resolution [illegible] afford also an opportunity to [illegible] the proposed amendment. It remains [illegible] many of the objections that have arisen during the last 13 years of debate. The present proposal for example would give congress the right to regulate labor under 18 years of age. If the limit were 16 years or under the measure would get more support. Likewise if a definite limitation could be written into the amendment eliminating any possible power to congress to exercise what is known as youth control or to impose any restriction on education on religious or otherwise much of the church opposition to the child labor amendment which has arisen would probably disappear.

The present child labor amendment to all intents and purposes is dead. It was really killed in 1927. The instance proves conclusively that where there is no substantial division of sentiment on the part of the American people ratification comes quickly and that opposition whether artificial or natural makes its appearance shortly after an amendment is submitted. The process of amending the federal constitution averages less than three years for ratification or rejection and the child labor proposal is no real exception to the rule.

Super-Microscope

By ERIC ROY
International News Correspondent

BERLIN March 3—A super microscope with a theoretical magnifying factor of 200,000 times normal has been demonstrated for the first time before the congress of German Physicists and Mathematicians at Bad Salzbrunn by its inventors Dr Brueche and Dr Ruska.

Realizing that developing the customary microscope invented by M Janssen in 1590 and perfected in its modern designs to enlarge objects nearly three thousand times is now definitely limited by the problem of building better glass lenses Dr Brueche and Dr Ruska began thinking about building a better apparatus with a greater magnifying factor. Working in the experimental department of the German General Electric company and the high tension laboratory of the Berlin Technical High school they conceived the idea of making use of the so-called channel rays consisting of electrons flying with high velocity and able to penetrate objects.

Work on Electron Rays

They discovered that the electron rays can be bent according to practical requirements like light rays are bent by optical lenses in the customary microscope if they are sent through electric high tension spools. The focus of the electric microscope can therefore comparatively easily be changed by simply changing the tension of the electric current in the spool. The problem of making the originally invisible channel (that is electron) rays visible to the human eye after they penetrated the objects to be enlarged was solved by the German scientists by the construction of a special screen.

The first new electric microscope constructed and shown to the Congress at Bad Salzbrunn by Dr Brueche and Dr Ruska showed objects subjected to electron rays penetration magnified about 15,000 times in surprising clarity. The inventors claim that a 200,000 fold enlargement is theoretically possible with their super microscope.

Great Possibilities Foreseen

Germs viewed under the super microscope appeared on the screen in sizes never before seen by scientists. According to statements by various scientific experts the new instrument offers great possibilities for learning more about the nature of germs of various diseases like the parrot disease and give hope that proper cures for such diseases will be developed. Before this can be accomplished however one more difficult problem has to be solved the inventors admitted. The electron rays penetrating objects under view create considerable heat which has detrimental effects on organic substances. Various cooling devices have already been designed and tried out on the microscope but all could only partly remove the trouble. The inventors are now earnestly working to construct an efficient cooling system and are confident that the difficulties will soon be overcome.

The new microscope according to opinions of experts will also open a new era for astronomy. Aided by the new enormous enlargement of the electron microscope astronomers will be able to study details on the surface of distant stars which now appear only as tiny points even in the most powerful telescopes of the world's observatories.

Modern Burbanks

By PAUL D S SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Farm Editor

PURDUE Ind March 3—Seeking to develop an exceptionally hardy breed of soft winter wheat agronomists at Purdue university believe that after creating 11,000 different strains their goal is within grasp.

Dr G H Cutler assistant chief of agronomy settled back in his office chair and described the painstaking efforts to breed a strain which will withstand the sudden winter temperature changes of Indiana and similar areas. The wheat is desired by millers specializing in pastry and cake flour.

Dr Cutler withheld announcement of when seed for the new strain would be available for farm planting but experiments he said have progressed to where success is assured.

Winter A Killer

Need for a soft winter wheat which would withstand winter weather became evident when a 15-year average indicated that one acre in every 11 planted was lost through winter killing. Often this represented the difference between profit and loss to the grower.

Cross breeding was started under the direction of Dr Cutler in 1930. It was a laborious undertaking involving not only careful culture but an elaborate catalogue record of each strain 10,000 of which already have been discarded.

Dr Cutler realized he had a job before him. To wait for seasonal weather changes for the experiments after crossing would take too long. He had a university greenhouse at his disposal where spring summer and winter weather could be simulated. He needed to produce near-zero and subzero temperatures to which small wheat plants could be subjected.

Uses Refrigerator

For this purpose a winter weather refrigerator was constructed inside the greenhouse. With this he and Dr W W Worzella were able to carry on their experiments irrespective of the weather outside.

Rows of young wheat plants in shallow wooden trays each row a different strain went into the winter weather. Those able to withstand the freeze of perhaps three below zero for 24 hours won tags entitling them to grow to maturity and produce seed for possible future crossing. Less hardy plants went into the discard.

Field Tests

One strain might show exceptional resistance to cold but poor yield. Another might have a fine yield but a tendency to fall over in wind after heading. A cross of these two would be made and so on. Next came field tests under natural growing conditions.

The wheat plant is self-pollinating and crossing of strains is a comparatively simple operation. A short time before the pistols are ready to shed pollen they are removed from the flowers on a plant to be crossed. The flowers then are covered with a small paper sack. When the pollen from the other side of the cross is ready it is removed and placed in the flowers from which the pistols were taken.

Today in Ohio History

BY R C HALL
Written for The Associated Press

Many important congressional acts have been lost in the shuffle of more important ones historically speaking. Such appears to have been the case of the act of March 3, 1871 which prohibited the Indian treaty method of disposing of public lands. This method had favored monopolies and worked against the interests of actual settlers it was claimed.

The bill was passed too late to be of help to the early settlers of Ohio but was first actively urged by an Ohio congressman William Lawrence who no doubt had been moved to take action by what he had learned of the old system of treaty sales in Ohio. Lawrence also served in the Union army and as comptroller of the currency as well as common pleas judge.

Overhaul of Federal Taxes Studied

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON March 3—Another one of those studies looking toward a complete overhauling of the federal tax structure is quietly under way in the treasury. The new under secretary Rockwell Magill is in charge.

The study was ordered for the good official reason that the income from social securities taxes has altered the future revenue picture of the government. In addition there is the better unofficial reason that the mistakes of the last corporations earnings distribution tax bill are being disclosed daily. Excellent methods of avoiding this tax have already been devised and changes in it are merely being delayed until the additional experience with the March 15 returns are available for examination.

No official word has been spoken but Magill is said to lean toward a flat simple tax of say 20 to 30 per cent to replace the various corporations levies or at least to eliminate the sliding scales.

Tax studies of course have become annual affairs. They develop usually at this time of the year when the taxpayers preparing returns become angry enough to want to slap some one's bald pate. However this one seems to hold some promise of getting beyond the departmental pigeonhole. Something may be done before congress adjourns.

Uncommitted

All the President's horses and all the President's men have apparently not been able to get the largest farm organization behind the court repacking plan.

The answer or at least the legitimate excuse seems to be that the American Farm Bureau Federation rules limit its officials in committing the organization. They only espouse causes agreed upon by the convention and the board. And there has been no expression on the court from either official source.

Thus while Ed O'Neal president of the federation may take a personal stand with his close friend in the White House he cannot officially indorse the President's move until a directors meeting is held.

True democracy with checks and balances still survives in the A F B F.

Canceled Speech Given

It seems Rural Resettler Alexander really delivered that anti-southern speech which he did not deliver to the west-south harmony conference.

In case this does not make sense to you consider these facts.

The text of Dr Alexander's speech was recalled and canceled by an official announcement of the Agriculture Department here which stated Dr Alexander did not use this speech but spoke extemporaneously.

But J S Russell farm editor of the Des Moines Tribune who sat a few feet away from Dr Alexander heard the good doctor say all the sharp things about southerners and southern statesmen which were contained in his text. Russell says that Alexander did not read from text but made the same speech. Others who listened on the radio say they heard the same thing.

The evidence appears to make out a clear charge of deception against the department. The testimony of witnesses suggests that the department misled southern congressmen who might have answered Dr Alexander into believing his attack was not delivered.

If so this is the only convincing case on record in which the publicity disciples of the new order have succeeded in making the nation believe a speech was not delivered when it was.

Round Trip Ticket

New Philippine High Commissioner Paul McNutt has already won the women's vote for 1940.

The White House probably would have changed his assignment to Marie Byrd Land if it could have seen the way the female employes of the war department dropped army business cold to see McNutt sworn in. Women who would not look up to see Clark Gable do a jig left their desks and flocked about the door of the oath chamber. Mr McNutt looked his best in his double breasted blue suit.

Attendants amused themselves by calculating what would be the correct odds on whether three such strong personalities as Gen MacArthur President Quezon and McNutt would be able to find room in the Philippines to accommodate themselves comfortably. The answer was negative. McNutt is expected back within a year.

Change of Heart

The most lonely figure in Washington now is the same one which was most powerful a few years ago.

The sole interest of former Treasury Secretary Andrew Mellon now 81 is the art gallery gift he is contributing to the capital. One member of congress who denounced Mellon regularly from the floor in former years is now remarking how eager he has found Mellon to be in disregarding expense to build this practical monument to art.

Almost Forgotten Art Revived

BY O O McINTYRE

NEW YORK March 3—Since the vaudeville starting days of Marshall Montgomery there has been a lapse in ventriloquial acts. And along came Edgar Bergen with his English toff dummy the monocled and high hatted Charlie McCarthy and gave fresh panache to an almost forgotten art.

Bergen Chicago born has been knocking around in variety chiefly in the English and continental music halls for 10 years. Just as good then as now. But like the estimable Frank Bacon doomed to rattle about in obscurity until the Big Moment arrived.

Rudy Vallee of course gave him a tremendous leg up by repeat performances on his radio hour. His act in the main is as old as ventriloquism—the dummy on the knee and the cross-fire patter. But the approach has a freshness and very catchy.

The dummy in the manner of Phil Baker's stooge does the questioning has all the smart lines and asides and makes a complete sap out of his manipulator. Revivals are in the air. It would not surprise many to see the ancient Indian Club juggler take billing again.

Not many writers—with the exception of Albert Payson Terhune with his collies—have made their hobby pay so handsomely as Corey Ford. A thoroughgoing city chap he suddenly became converted to the thrills of fishing and hunting built a sanctuary in deep Vermont and spends most of his leisure with rod and gun. Then he began marketing articles on these two diversions and perhaps hawks more of this sort of material than any one of his time.

Every afternoon in seasonable weather there appears in Central Park a rubber-tired run-about drawn by a spanking cobbed bay with a driver an Adams applish gentleman in natty garments of the fashionable driving days—low bowler fawn-toned vest Ascot tie and lemon colored gloves. He circles the park twice at merry clip looking neither right nor left. At the finish a groom is on hand to take the horse and gig to the stable and the driver glides off in his waiting limousine. The sparrow cops unaware of his identity call him Mr Gay Ninety.

Another anachronism that pivots passers-by near Radio Center is the little shop that sells old fashioned candies. Such as coconut flag strips hoarhound nigger babies jaw breakers with the caraway seed in the center licorice straps and other such confectionary caprices as the tin skillet with the sugary fried eggs candy filled glass revolvers red hot pepper mint drops etc. The proprietress a New Englander and a ringer for the Lydia E Pinkham photographs in the ads also acts as exchange for fancy work and home made jellies and pies. A real life character out of Way Down East.

The most extensive costuming among professional entertainers is for the ballroom dancers. Those who must appear ultra in evening clothes two and three times a night. The spotlight is on them always in action and they are so close to the customers that any minor dereliction is instantly noted. To be sartorially superb is a part of the act. A season's outlay for the DeMarcos for instance is in excess of $5,000 and that for Veloz and Yolanda in the same bracket.

Jars suggested could be de- vacuated terri tories. The result the engineers said would be absolute elimination of the flood problem such as could not be effected by means of levees and walls.

A few limited movements to abandon flood areas resulted from this year's overflows in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys. In some instances spokesmen said the government river bottoms would be abandoned as home sites if the government would help resettle the resident.

Officials said however that the government could not indemnify property owners for flood losses although some rural resettlement might be undertaken.

Projects Take Time

Maj. Gen Edward M Markham chief of engineers who is preparing a national flood control plan for consideration by congress said maximum security probably could not be assured to residents of river valleys within the next few years because of the time required to execute such a large scale undertaking.

Neither could he forecast that the recent Ohio valley floods would not be repeated this year. Such disaster he said depend entirely upon the amount of rain fall in the water bed.

To control the rivers engineers reported four methods may be used Diversion of streams into floodways channel improvements storage reservoirs and levees or protection walls. The last two they added constitute the only feasible means of controlling the Ohio.

Letters From Our Readers

CALLING FOR TONG

Editor of The Star Say folks have you missed anything that was very familiar on our streets. You know that fellow that was always on the job rain or shine and he rode a motorcycle. It said City Police on the back.

There I have gone and told you. Yes it is our old friend Tong the boy that was a real motorcycle cop for Marion and treated one and all alike. Sure he told us direct from the bat when we were wrong and he showed no favors. But say what is a cop for anyway? Has he got to stop you and give you a kiss and say don't do it again or I'll have to spank you?

What we would like to know is what is wrong. We see him on the streets but I say he looks better on a motorcycle and we want him back.

Suppose he did bump the thing. Are we not paying for new cars for our police and repairing them ever so often? Suppose a boy was taken after by our police and a slight accident to the motorcycle did happen. Is that a just cause to remove a good man and make a monkey out of our police department? What is the joke we wonder.

Well I will say that in all my travels about Marion I see more of Tong here there and everywhere on the streets doing his duty and earning his pay than I do of three motor cops in any other city with a motorcycle squad.

The Marion police are all OK and should not be tampered with or made afraid to do their duty as officers to favor some higher up. I believe it only tends to lessen the efficiency of our officers and aids in cutting their pride and with the small pay our department gets we should at least let them do their duty without the fear of offending some outsider (or some insider). We hope that we see Tong back on the motorcycle.

GOV COSGROVE

A Franklin county country school teacher rose to the seat of the chief executive of the state of Washington—Samuel C Cosgrove who was elected governor of Washington in 1908 Cosgrove was the sixth governor of the state.

A farmer boy Cosgrove was graduated at Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware in the class of 1878 and taught rural schools in Franklin county to pay his college expenses.

After graduation he entered the insurance business and moved to Washington. He was an ardent Republican and drifted into politics winning the first public office he ever sought—the governorship of his adopted state. Cosgrove died in March, 1909 a few months after he was inaugurated.

SPORTSMEN HEAR GRAPHIC STORY OF CANADIAN TRIP

Cleveland Editor Tells Marion Audience How To 'Throw Fish Back' as Well as Catch Them

Motion pictures and verbal descriptions of a fishing trip into upper Ontario, presented by V R Gray rod and gun editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer last night before the Marion County Fish and Game Protective association made nearly 400 sportsmen of this area begin to count the days until vacation time. The picture partly in color was made doubly interesting by the comments of Mr Gray who caught—and threw back—fish of a size rarely seen by fishermen.

On his trip the twenty-second he has made into various parts of Canada Mr Gray caught hundreds of fish for photographic purposes but kept only a few he said. A master at throwing back fish he said many "sportsmen really don't know how to do it.

If a fish is so exhausted after a stiff battle that it can be pulled up to the side of the boat on its side he said don't throw it back as soon as you take out the hook. Grasp it lightly in the mid region and hold it just under the water in normal position until you can see its gills begin to move slowly. In a short time the tail will start to wiggle and when the fish has recovered it will swim out of your hands to safety.

Not Always Safe

Many so-called sportsmen think a fish is safe in water no matter how exhausted it is, but a completely tired fish can drown as easily as any animal Mr Gray said. If it is thrown back immediately it will sink to the bottom.

In picking up a fish which is to be thrown back sportsmen should always wet their hands first to avoid removing the protective gelatinous coating from the scales Mr Gray said. Dry hands will pull off this covering permit fungus growth to attack and scales and ultimately kill the fish.

Prior to the showing of the pictures at Eagles hall on West Center street Mr Gray spoke informally at a dinner in his honor at Hotel Marion attended by 21 leading sportsmen of this vicinity. They were Dr Z B Houghton, Cyril Cuthers president of the LaRue Sportsmen's club Dr W L Pasters Roy Abel president of the Marion County Fish and Game Protective association who presided at both meetings O H Namayer county game protector Dr Frank R Mann and Frank Mann Jr K S Sligle Jack Farqua W O Nippert W G Slack H W Davis W H Henderson Wilbur Symes Louis Rubeck Harold White A M Young A W Coon and R M Miller.

Attractive Spot

Locale of the fishing trip described by Mr Gray was in the vicinity of Lake Pounge north of Georgian Bay about 750 miles from Marion. Usual fishing equipment camping supplies enough money to pay for a guide at $4 a day and $3 a day for room and board in one of the cabins will be all a sportsmen will need for a vacation there Mr Gray said.

Pike small and big mouth bass are rampant in the hundreds of small and large lakes in the area he said. Of great help to fishermen are the broken shore lines of many of the lakes. Nosage for example which is only 18 miles long but which has a 500-mile shore line due to the deep indentations.

Two and one-half reels of fascinating motion pictures recounting the trip from start to finish occupied more than two hours. One scene stood out particularly and Mr Gray termed it the best slow motion color shot of a bass fighting for its life that he had ever seen. It showed in true life colors the battle staged by a five pound gaming fish against the long years of experience behind Mr Gray's rod. The fish leaped more than a foot out of the water twisting and turning violently until finally exhausted.

Prior to the moving pictures, Mr Gray showed slides of the vicinity to acquaint the audience with the geography.

Game Released

Mr Abel announced the association has obtained eight raccoon and released them in the county. He also said word had been received from Congressman Brooks Fletcher that the government will send several hundred fish here in June for restocking of the Whetstone river. The Whetstone dams which the association is sponsoring as a WPA project are now under consideration at Washington and probably will be approved soon he told the members. The project has already been approved by local WPA officials.

In his informal talk before sportsmen at Hotel Marion, Mr Gray discussed several bills pending in the legislature pertaining to fish and game. He gave particulars of the new quail proposal which would permit each township to have a quail preserve of 640 acres on which sportsmen could shoot. Individual farmers may apply for permission to establish such a preserve. Several landowners may band together to make it he said. Nothing would be compulsory but one such tract could be set up in each township in the state for the benefit of hunters he said. Farmers could benefit by charging hunters for rights to shoot there and hunters would have a sport which they have wanted for years quail shooting Mr Gray said.

It is the first time a quail hunting bill has reached the floor of the house from the committee, he said. Other bills mentioned included one which would lengthen the pheasant season another which would create universal licensing of fishermen in the state.

REBELS STRIKE HARD AT MADRID'S EXIT

Troops, Tanks and Heavy Guns Storm Highway To Block Retreat

By The Associated Press

Insurgent commanders believing Madrid's defense leaders planned a mass retreat from the city drove their forces hard today at the Madrid-Valencia highway the main avenue of flight remaining to those besieged in Madrid

Shock troops tanks and heavy artillery were thrown into action in the assault at two points on strong government fortifications in front of the highway which runs southeastward from Madrid

In that region the Jarama front fighting has raged for three weeks as the insurgents sought to complete encirclement of Madrid and sever the important communications line

The insurgent command at Navalcarnero to the west estimated 2 000 government soldiers had been killed in the Jarama fighting and said Madrid's hospitals housed at least 11 000 wounded

On the European arms front Great Britain meanwhile announced she would spend $525 325 000 on her navy in 1937

She will construct 80 new warships including three battleships the house of commons was informed In addition 11 000 officers and men will be added to the navy to make the total personnel 112 000

Coincidentally Britain put into effect large reductions in tariffs on iron and steel for munitions in an effort to keep her five-year $7 500 000 rearmament program running on schedule

BRIDE ON TRIAL IN JEALOUSY SLAYING

Allegedly 'Closed Accounts With Pistol' in New Year's Eve Murder

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES March 3—The New Year's eve jealousy slaying of a prominent clubman Harry A Love—how his secret bride allegedly closed accounts with a pistol and later professed her love while kissing his dead lips—was described today at the woman's murder trial

I'm closing accounts for the year the 31 year old Mrs Helen Love was quoted by Detective Captain Elmer Lingo as saying after Love was shot down outside Santa Monica's fashionable Del Mar club where he had accompanied his mother

She claimed Love 46 married her in Mexico refused to tell his socially prominent mother Mrs Charles Love who came between us and broke an engagement with her to take his mother to the club

I simply loved him too much to give him up she told Captain Lingo

Police Chief Charles Dice of Santa Monica said that within an hour after she was arrested Mrs Love attempted to hang herself

Prosecutors gave no indication of recommending mercy in seeking a first degree murder verdict That would leave death by hanging mandatory in case of conviction

Mrs Love on trial before eight women and four men pleaded innocent by reason of insanity Her attorneys said she was a native of Cincinnati Ohio

The report declared that abuses had crept into the administration of relief here Mr Abel answered this by saying that so long as Marion county was given insufficient money to provide food for relief clients it was impossible to provide adequate investigation of relief families.

To my knowledge Mr Abel told the legislators no one in Marion county is receiving relief who is not entitled to it He referred to a portion of the report that stated a relief client here had built a new house while on relief He said that at the time of the investigation he had attempted to ascertain the name of the client from the investigators but was told that such information could not be divulged At the same time Mr Abel said the investigators gave me the name of a client whom they charged had an excess of clothing from the sewing center If they could give me the name of one why couldn't they give me the name of the other a case vastly more important from a relief administration standpoint

The peak in 1929 was 65 000 000 tons and shipping circles said this year's movement would only depend on how much ore can be brought down

With ice conditions on the upper lakes the best in recent years shipping circles are preparing for an early opening The earliest opening of navigation at Duluth on record according to the U S hydrographic office here is March 30 and the average date—1871 to 1935—is April 24

No estimate of the coal movement has been made but shipping men expect it to be as great as last year when 35 837 460 tons were moved the most in history

With the three watch system now in use on all lake freighters shipping men report a shortage of licensed officers to man the ships

Engineering and navigation schools have been in operation this winter preparing men for license berths

It is believed that the four ships will be allocated to various great lakes ship yards In all probability several of the ships will be constructed at the Lorain yards of the American Ship Building Co and another at the American Ship Building's Toledo and Ecorse plants One may be constructed at the Ashtabula plant of the company

A TWENTY-YEAR ERRAND

Weldon Ross Evans, age three, asked his mother if he could have a piece of ice. That was twenty years ago. He toddled into the kitchen to get it, and vanished, not to be seen until a few days ago. The mother, now Mrs. Archie Holden, tried to adopt a lad named Carl Solomon, but Carl's parents wouldn't part with him. Evans, a seaman, recently told his shipmate, Solomon, that he was from Baltimore. The result was this reunion with his mother in her Baltimore home. Holden is at the left.

Marion Clubwomen Hear Talk On Dictatorship By Lima Pastor

THE causes and growth of dictatorship as developed in the history of Russia Italy Germany and other countries were discussed by Dr Simon M Davidian pastor of Lima Central Church of Christ at Lima before an audience made up of clubwomen and guests last night in Central Christian church

The minister was a guest speaker on the program of the regular monthly meeting of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs to which patronesses and the public were invited He discussed the topic Dictators in a Modern World Miss Pansy Rauhauser program chairman of the federation presided

Officers Elected

The address was preceded by a short business session of the federation which included the election of officers for the 1937-38 season Heading the slate is Mrs Everett Grigsby who is the present presiding officer Chosen with her are Mrs A Merle Hamilton first vice president Mrs Ben Jacoby second vice president Mrs James R Smith recording secretary Mrs John Bartram corresponding secretary and Mrs George Kleinmaier treasurer Standing committees and chairmen presented at a recent board meeting together with the officers were unanimously elected for the coming club year Mrs Grigsby presided for the business session

Preceding the address of Dr Davidian Mrs Victor E Dombaugh played a pleasing group of four organ numbers Poem Fibich The Rosary Nevin Indian Love Call Friml and In a Monastery Garden Ketelby

Dictatorship is the most startling thing that came out of the war Dr Davidian said in prefacing his discussion of the development of this modern trend of leadership At the close of the war Europe was ready for dictatorship he pointed out and gave as his reasons the fact that the people had become accustomed to conservation of power during the war when the leaders of nations took over individual power the disintegration of all democracies and the urge of communism Citing Germany in particular he pointed out that the people had no employment the money had devaluated the colonies had been lost and communism was sweeping in through Poland

Germans Like Hitler

The people of Germany like Hitler because he has given them a contented country and those opposing him are the clergy professors and teachers he explained Italy he said while one of the victorious nations had lost the peace of the country when Mussolini took over the leadership and through his ability to organize and lead he has brought about a contented populace

In discussing Russia the speaker said there were children in schools there the same as in America.

There are no middle class of people It is the nobility and peasants he explained Atheism state capitalism and communism are the principles of the youth movement in that country he said

Dictatorship is not a new idea Dr Davidian said and pointed out that Mussolini had been in power in Italy for more than 15 years The fact that they are growing concerns should concern us a great deal he said He expressed the belief that America was in no danger of dictatorship but rather more in danger of fascism and concentration of power

Following his talk Dr Davidian gave his audience an opportunity to ask questions regarding his topic and some of his experiences in his travels aboard

The next meeting will be April 6 when Mrs Depew Head of Columbus will give a book review

Chopin's Concerto in Miss Ruvinska's Marion Program

Of [illegible] to patrons who will hear Miss Paula Ruvinska pianist of New York City on the Marion Civic orchestra concert Tuesday [illegible] the story of Chopin [illegible] famous concerto in F minor the guest artist has selected to play

Chopin was born March 1 1809 in a little village near Warsaw and at an early age showed his sensitiveness to music eagerly absorbing all the musical instructions available He was a finished pianist at the age of 19 and appeared several times in public at this age making a great impression by the poetic quality of his compositions and unconventional style of his playing

After traveling extensively through Europe playing and composing fitfully when the mood struck him he settled in Paris in 1831 where some of his compositions were first published and where his fame was furthered by a review written by Schumann also a famous composer and said by some to be the discoverer of Chopin

While in Paris he met Madame Dudevant or George Sand as she was known who became at once the blessing and curse of his life for he gave his whole life to her

The orchestra and the orchestra sponsors are indeed fortunate in having the opportunity to hear Miss Ruvinska as a real artist and true exponent of Chopin playing this most difficult of concertos with the orchestra Tuesday night Mrs T Malcolm Streitz president of the Woman's Symphony board said in speaking of the forthcoming musical treat

When Miss Ruvinska played the Chopin Concerto with the late Ossip Gabrilowitch conducting the Detroit Symphony orchestra the latter was asked in an interview how she interpreted the composition He paid a high compliment to her artistic ability by replying I only wish that she might have repeated the entire concerto for my benefit it was wonderful

When Miss Ruvinska appears with the orchestra it will be under the direction of her father Abram Ruvinsky of Columbus who has directed the orchestra for the last three seasons

now as well. She only said "It isn't exactly a farmhouse though we still have an orchard and a meadow"

"But we'll—and be you dear Mary—" said Judge ... sias early "Won't we Peter? We'll all come out and see you even if it's miles and miles"

Judge still close behind Eve and George stood up

"I'll come" he said cheerily "That is if I won't be a burden"

He was so in earnest that he scarcely minded the laughter Eve put her arm around his reluctant shoulders and bent down and whispered that she knew he would be a great help His parents should bring him out the minute she was settled

For some reason he began to cry quietly but steadily Eve glanced at the backs above them Ellen's brown satin head and black satin shoulders Mitzi's George's evening coat She touched Ellen who said quietly to George "The boy's excited too many late nights. Can you reach a glass of water without stirring things up?"

George did He knelt down by Eve on the floor with the child on her lap "Here old man drink this slowly" he said taking charge Eve liked him for the first time

"Where's his mother?"

Eve indicated Marvin who had slipped away leaning again laughing Peter now at the end of the room

"I see" George said and went on talking in an even, soothing mutter to Judge

"The Featherstones are the ones who ought to go to the country," Ellen said sitting down with Eve again—Mitzi had reclaimed George

"Can you see them?" Eve said, laughing "Judge was reared in a clothes-basket on a fire escape —he's the perfect city child"

Ellen shook her head and said "It's wrong"

She was very religious, a girl who would get up after a late night and go to early church, who examined her conscience who said little and did much She went on speaking "Eve—wouldn't you like to come in with me till you can turn around? You haven't much time before your lease is up"

"You angel No indeed. I've time to move"

"To be sure I suppose" said Ellen shrewdly "the next thing will be matrimony then"

Eve looked startled She remembered that after all Denny still had his old job—thank goodness

Supper For the Wolves

"I think I'd better go out to the country—indeed I have to" she said "I have to get the house in order for renting"

Ellen unanswered said only "I think these wolves are getting hungry Let's start on the supper" She and Eve clasped hands for a second as they moved away

"Hey you lazy brutes, come on and help us pass the dishes" Eve called brightly The men streamed after her everybody was shouting and laughing and enjoying the party as hard as ever Eve felt grateful to them as she and Ellen ladled out the queer Italian dish and served it and saw that everybody had red wine.

It was long after two when the last lingerers picked themselves off the floor cushions and divans and said their affectionate goodnights. Shouting in the echoing hall making engagements and small loud jokes the party streamed away

Eve beckoned Denny back. She had to know

They returned to the disordered smoky room, with its chairs and tables in odd groups its scattered plates and cups and glasses The radio was mewing to itself forgotten Denny turned it off and said uneasily "You always find one glass 10 feet up two weeks later—I wonder why"

Eve began to assemble the stray dishes and ash trays on her big black tin tray "I don't know Darling is what Dill said true?"

He dropped his sleek beautiful fair head on his hands "Yes, it is. You ought to shoot me I shouldn't have got you to resign Your job gone and your apartment rented"

"It was my idea as well as yours" she said gently "It's a blessing you haven't chucked your job too"

Denny said tragically "And we were going to be married in a fortnight Why can't I marry you anyway and support you as a man should the girl he loves What on earth are you going to do darling?"

Eve began to assemble stray dishes and dirty ashtrays "Darling is what Dill said true"

She had been bending lovingly above him She straightened up at this But he was right she saw after a moment of chill not to think of going on with it They couldn't live around on people like the Featherstones For a long five minutes nobody spoke

"I can stay out in the old house in Connecticut after I get it ready to rent" she said "That will save me money till it's rented Then I'll get a room in New York and look for work again I have enough to live on for a while"

"Darling I can't stand it You so far from me And existing in a dreadful country dump—it's wild isn't it"

"No It's a village—A village as old as New York as a matter of fact We're on an old post road about two miles from the village itself And the furniture isn't in storage it's all up in an attic — you've heard about attics haven't you darling? And about a quarter of a mile from it there are the ragged remains of another house with a half dozen boys in it who can be hired to bring the furniture down And Mrs Seymour will come in and do cleaning"

"Oh well then I needn't worry about you But I'm going to escort you out and see you safe just the same even if I have to come straight back the next minute"

"Oh Denny you always think of the most comforting things It will make such a difference not to have to go out there in the train in cold blood" She smiled quite cheered and went on brightly "After all it's in good condition It's always been lived in"

"I wonder if it would be too far to commute?" he said thoughtfully

"It's about two hours" she said Her heart leaped But Denny thought for a minute and shook his head

"Afraid that's out. Oh isn't being poor the devil? What with commutation and being off from everybody we ever knew—well hang it Eve we're both dyed-in-the-wool city mice the worst kind" Denny brightened "Maybe you could sell it"

"I'm going to try And now you must go Denny"

After a long close-held understanding five minutes more he went and Eve went to bed and tried to sleep She clung fast to the silly little comfort Denny would drive her out

Mitzi comes to Denny's rescue, tomorrow

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge and Mary Suspect Unsigned Letters Were Written by Avis Arlen.

AT MARY'S explosive ejaculation of "Avis Arlen" I nodded in assent.

"I always fits in" I said "She is the only person of all your acquaintance who has the mentality and the lack of scruples which characterize an anonymous letter writer She is also the one who has what she considers a grievance I have no doubt she really believes what she has so often falsely asserted that Noel really was in love with her and that you stole him from her"

Mary's sudden grin heartened me It told me that her worry while deep-seated could yet be relieved by her rare sense of humor

"Don't forget Auntie Madge" she said impishly "that they once read poetry books together and he used the poems"

"Poor Noel" I sighed "He'll have that particular sword held over his head as long as he's married to you"

"To our diamond wedding and beyond" Mary said and then she grinned again

"Poor darling Noel" she said "If the writer of these really does turn out to be Avis Arlen I'll have something else to hold over his head in our declining years"

"Never mind that now" I said a bit impatiently "There's something else worrying me now"

What Does She Know?

"Oh forgive me" she pleaded with quick contrition "In a little boast What is it? Can I do anything?"

"Yes. Sit still and listen and put those agile wits of yours to work"

She sank back into her seat again with hands tightly clasped and wide eyes fixed upon me

"It's just this" I began "I don't believe that your father-in-law confided any part of his purpose to that girl What she has discovered has been by a process of—"

"Snooping as Grandma says about Katie" Mary supplied quickly "Call a spade a spade Auntie Madge"

"By any other name it would be as dangerous" I retorted "Don't you realize that if she has been able to find out as much as these letters indicate about what Noel's father is doing she may have been able to go deeper into the mystery? And knowledge like that in the hands of a cunning moron like Avis Arlen is nitroglycerine"

"But what can we do about it?" Mary wailed

"Nothing just now" I said "That's the bad part of it to have to play a waiting game It takes all the heart out of a person But we mustn't relax an iota of the precautions we're taking to keep our whereabouts secret She simply mustn't find out where we are"

"I don't believe she ever could find us up here" Mary said comfortingly and I saw that with the resilience of youth she was fast forgetting her burden once she had dumped it at my feet But I would not have had it otherwise If the fantastic fears I had not named even to myself—but which I guessed Lillian had fathomed—had any modicum of foundation Dicky's lovely young niece was headed straight toward misery if not heartbreak

There was no use anticipating trouble I told myself unless by so doing it could be avoided In the dilemma confronting us our hands were tied We were compelled to await developments We might as well meet whatever was to come with an insouciant air as with a dolorous demeanor

I rose quickly gathered the letters together and caught them with the rubber band which Mary had put around them

"A truce to horrors!" I said just as I heard a step sounded outside "But I would like to show these to Mrs Underwood sometime today"

"Of course" she returned "Just so that I don't have to see them"

Marion Clubwomen Hear Talk On Dictatorship By Lima Pastor

THE causes and growth of dictatorship as developed in the history of Russia Italy Germany and other countries were discussed by Dr Simon M Davidian pastor of Lima Central Church of Christ at Lima before an audience made up of clubwomen and guests last night in Central Christian church

The minister was a guest speaker on the program of the regular monthly meeting of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs to which patronesses and the public were invited He discussed the topic Dictators in a Modern World Miss Pansy Rauhauser program chairman of the federation presided

Officers Elected

The address was preceded by a short business session of the federation which included the election of officers for the 1937-38 season Heading the slate is Mrs Everett Grigsby who is the present presiding officer Chosen with her are Mrs A Merle Hamilton first vice president Mrs Ben Jacobs second vice president Mrs James R Smith recording secretary Mrs John Bartram corresponding secretary and Mrs George Kleinmaier treasurer Standing committees and chairmen presented at a recent board meeting together with the officers were unanimously elected for the coming club year Mrs Grigsby presided for the business session

Preceding the address of Dr Davidian Mrs Victor L Dombaugh played a pleasing group of four organ numbers Poem Fibrich The Rosary Nevin Indian Love Call Friml and In a Monastery Garden Ketelby

Dictatorship is the most startling thing that came out of the war Dr Davidian said in prefacing his discussion of the development of this modern trend of leadership At the close of the war Europe was ready for dictatorship he pointed out and gave as his reasons the fact that the people had become accustomed to conservation of power during the war when the leaders of nations took over individual power the disintegration of all democracies and the urge of communism Citing Germany in particular he pointed out that the people had no employment the money had devaluated the colonies had been lost and communism was sweeping in through Poland

Germans Like Hitler

The people of Germany like Hitler because he has given them a contented country and those opposing him are the clergy professors and teachers he explained Italy he said while one of the victorious nations had lost the peace of the country when Mussolini took over the leadership and through his ability to organize and lead he has brought about a contented populace

In discussing Russia the speaker said there were children in schools there the same as in America There are no middle class of people it is the nobility and peasants he explained Atheism state capitalism and communism are the principles of the youth movement in that country he said

Dictatorship is not a new idea Dr Davidian said and pointed out that Mussolini had been in power in Italy for more than 15 years The fact that they are growing concerns should concern us a great deal he said He expressed the belief that America was in no danger of dictatorship but rather more in danger of fascism and concentration of power

Following his talk Dr Davidian gave his audience an opportunity to ask questions regarding his topic and some of his experiences in his travels aboard

The next meeting will be April 6 when Mrs Depew Head of Columbus will give a book review

Chopin's Concerto in Miss Ruvinska's Marion Program

Of interest to patrons who will hear Miss Pauline Ruvinska pianist of New York City on the Marion Civic orchestra concert Tuesday night is the story of Chopin and the famous concerto in F minor the guest artist has selected to play

Chopin was born March 1 1809 in a little village near Warsaw and at an early age showed his sensitiveness of mind eagerly absorbing all the musical instructions available He was a finished pianist at the age of 19 and appeared several times in public at this age making a great impression by the poetic quality of his compositions and unconventional style of his playing

After traveling extensively through Europe playing and composing fitfully when the mood struck him he settled in Paris in 1831 where some of his compositions were first published and where his fame was furthered by a review written by Schumann also a famous composer and said by some to be the discoverer of Chopin

While in Paris he met Madame Dudevant or George Sand as she was known who became at once the blessing and curse of his life for he gave his whole life to her

The orchestra and the orchestra sponsors are indeed fortunate in having the opportunity to hear Miss Ruvinska as a real artist and true exponent of Chopin playing this most difficult of concertos with the orchestra Tuesday night Mrs T Malcolm Strelitz president of the Woman's Symphony board said in speaking of the forthcoming musical treat

When Miss Ruvinska played the Chopin Concerto with the late Ossip Gabrilowitch conducting the Detroit Symphony orchestra the latter was asked in an interview how she interpreted the composition He paid a high compliment to her artistic ability by replying I only wish that she might have repeated the entire concerto for my benefit it was wonderful

When Miss Ruvinska appears with the orchestra it will be under the direction of her father Abram Ruvinsky of Columbus who has directed the orchestra for the last three seasons

now, as well. She only said "It isn't exactly a farm house though we still have an orchard and a meadow."

"But we'll [illegible] you, dear," Marylin said enthusiastically. "Won't we, Pete? We'll all come out and see you even if it's miles and miles."

Judge, still close behind Eve and George, stood up.

"I'll come," he said soberly. "That is, if I won't be a burden."

He was so in earnest that he scarcely minded the laughter. Eve put her arm around his reluctant shoulder and bent down and whispered that she knew he would be a great help. His parents should bring him out the minute she was settled.

For some reason he began to cry quietly but steadily. Eve glanced at the backs above them, Ellen's brown satin head and black satin shoulders, Mitzi's George's evening coat. She touched Ellen, who said quietly to George, "The boy's excited, too many late nights. Can you reach a glass of water without stirring things up?"

George did. He knelt down by Eve on the floor with the child on her lap. "Here old man, drink this slowly," he said, taking charge. Eve liked him for the first time. "Where's his mother?"

Eve indicated Marvlin, who had slipped away, leaning against laughing Peter now at the end of the room.

"I see," George said, and went on talking in an even, soothing mutter to Judge.

"The Featherstones are the ones who ought to go to the country," Ellen said, sitting down with Eve again—Mitzi had reclaimed George.

"Can you see them?" Eve said laughing. "Judge was reared in a clothes-basket on a fire escape — he's the perfect city child."

Ellen shook her head and said, "It's wrong . . ."

She was very religious, a girl who would get up after a late night and go to early church, who examined her conscience, who said little and did much. She went on speaking. "Eve—wouldn't you like to come in with me till you can turn around? You haven't much time before your lease is up."

"You angel! No indeed. I've time to move."

"To be sure, I suppose," said Ellen shrewdly, "the next thing will be matrimony then."

Eve looked startled. She remembered that after all Denny still had his old job—thank goodness!

Supper For the Wolves

"I think I'd better go out to the country—indeed I have to," she said. "I have to get the house in order for renting."

Ellen unanswered, said only, "I think these wolves are getting hungry. Let's start on the supper." She and Eve clasped hands for a second as they moved away.

"Hey, you lazy brutes, come on and help us pass the dishes," Eve called brightly. The men streamed after her, everybody was shouting and laughing and enjoying the party as hard as ever. Eve felt grateful to them as she and Ellen ladled out the queer Italian dish and served it and saw that everybody had red wine.

It was long after two when the last lingerers picked themselves off the floor cushions and divans and said their affectionate goodnights. Shouting in the echoing hall, making engagements and small loud jokes, the party streamed away.

Eve beckoned Denny back. She had to know.

They returned to the disordered smoky room, with its chairs and tables in odd groups, its scattered plates and cups and glasses. The radio was mewing to itself, forgotten. Denny turned it off and said uneasily, "You always find one glass 10 feet up two weeks later—I wonder why?"

Eve began to assemble the stray dishes and ash trays on her big black tin tray. "I don't know. Darling, is what Dill said true?"

He dropped his sleek, beautiful fair head on his hands. "Yes, it is. You ought to shoot me. I shouldn't have got you to resign. Your job gone and your apartment rented."

"It was my idea as well as yours," she said gently. "It's a blessing you haven't chucked your job too."

Denny said tragically, "And we were going to be married in a few nights. Why can't I marry you anyway and support you as a man should the girl he loves? What on earth are you going to do, darling?"

Eve began to assemble stray dishes and dirty ashtrays. "Darling, is what Dill said true?"

She had been bending lovingly above him. She straightened up at this. But he was right, she saw after a moment of chill, not to think of going on with it. They couldn't live around on people like the Featherstones. For a long five minutes nobody spoke.

"I can stay out in the old house in Connecticut after I get it ready to rent," she said. "That will save me money till it's rented. Then I'll get a room in New York and look for work again. I have enough to live on for a while."

"Darling, I can't stand it. You so far from me. And existing in a dreadful country dump—it's wild, isn't it?"

"No, it's a village—a village as old as New York as a matter of fact. We're on an old post road about two miles from the village itself. And the furniture isn't in storage, it's all up in an attic — you've heard about attics, haven't you, darling? And about a quarter of a mile from it there are the ragged remains of another house with a half dozen boys in it who can be hired to bring the furniture down. And Mrs Seymour will come in and do cleaning."

"Oh well, then I needn't worry about you. But I'm going to escort you out and see you safe just the same, even if I have to come straight back the next minute."

"Oh Denny, you always think of the most comforting things. It will make such a difference not to have to go out there in the train in cold blood." She smiled, quite cheered, and went on brightly. "After all it's in good condition. It's always been lived in."

"I wonder if it would be too far to commute?" he said thoughtfully.

"It's about two hours," she said. Her heart leaped. But Denny thought for a minute and shook his head.

"Fraid that's out. Oh, isn't being poor the devil? What with commutation and being off from everybody we ever knew—well, hang it, Eve, we're both dyed in the wool city mice, the worst kind." Denny brightened. "Maybe you could sell it."

"I'm going to try. And now you must go, Denny."

After a long close-held understanding five minutes more he went and Eve went to bed and tried to sleep. She clung fast to the silly little comfort. Denny would drive her out.

Mitzi comes to Denny's rescue tomorrow

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge and Mary Suspect Unsigned Letters Were Written by Avis Arlen.

AT MARY'S explosive ejaculation of "Avis Arlen!" I nodded in assent.

"It all fits in," I said. "She is the only person of all your acquaintance who has the mentality and the lack of scruples which characterize an anonymous letter writer. She is also the one who has what she considers a grievance. I have no doubt she really believes what she has so often falsely asserted, that Noel really was in love with her, and that you stole him from her."

Mary's sudden grin heartened me. It told me that her worry, while deep-seated, could yet be relieved by her rare sense of humor.

"Don't forget, Auntie Madge," she said impishly, "that they once read poetry books together, and discussed the poems."

"Poor Noel," I sighed. "He'll have that particular sword held over his head as long as he's married to you."

"To our diamond wedding and beyond," Mary said, and then she grinned again.

"Poor darling Noel," she said. "If the writer of these really does turn out to be Avis Arlen I'll have something else to hold over his head in our declining years."

"Never mind that now," I said a bit impatiently. "There's something else worrying me now."

What Does She Know?

"Oh, forgive me," she pleaded with quick contrition. "I'm a little beast. What is it? Can I do anything?"

"Yes. Sit still and listen and put those agile wits of yours to work."

She sank back into her seat again with hands tightly clasped and wide eyes fixed upon me.

"It's just this," I began. "I don't believe that your father-in-law confided any part of his purpose to that girl. What she has discovered has been by a process of—"

"Snooping, as Grandma says about Katie," Mary supplied quickly. "Call a spade a spade, Auntie Madge."

"By any other name it would be as dangerous," I retorted. "Don't you realize that if she has been able to find out as much as these letters indicate about what Noel's father is doing, she may have been able to go deeper into the mystery? And knowledge like that in the hands of a cunning moron like Avis Arlen is nitroglycerine."

"But what can we do about it?" Mary wailed.

"Nothing just now," I said. "That's the bad part of it, to have to play a waiting game. It takes all the heart out of a person. But we mustn't relax an iota of the precautions we're taking to keep our whereabouts secret. She simply mustn't find out where we are."

"I don't believe she ever could find us up here," Mary said comfortingly, and I saw that with the resilience of youth she was fast forgetting her burden once she had dumped it at my feet. But I would not have had it otherwise. If the fantastic fears I had not named even to myself, but which I guessed Lillian had fathomed—had any modicum of foundation, Dicky's lovely young niece was headed straight toward misery if not heartbreak.

There was no use anticipating trouble, I told myself, unless by so doing it could be avoided. In the dilemma confronting us our hands were tied. We were compelled to await developments. We might as well meet whatever was to come with an insouciant air as with a dolorous demeanor.

I rose quickly, gathered the letters together and caught them with the rubber band which Mary had put around them.

"A truce to horrors!" I said just as Lillian's step sounded outside. "But I would like to show these to Mrs Underwood sometime today."

"Of course," she returned. "Just so that I don't have to see them."

Harding Cage Teams Win Two Games from Shelby

VARSITY ENDS YEAR IN TIE FOR THIRD PLACE IN LEAGUE

Presidents Have Easy Going To Turn Back Whippets by 37 to 19 Score

Marion Harding basketball cagers experienced little trouble in trouncing the cellar position Shelby Whippets 37 to 19 last night in the season's ending game which gave the Presidents a third place tie in the final North Central Ohio league standings

Early in the opening period Harding asserted its supremacy and grabbed a lead which grew as the game progressed Marion was ahead 11 to 4 at the quarter 16 to 10 at the half and 30 to 15 as the game went into the final stanza

Harding's starting line up came through in great style with every member of the quintet accounting for at least three points Shelby's defensive work netted little results against the Pohyer coached combine as the Harding players broke through consistently to register even on the most difficult attempts

Frank Roberts forward and Forrest Sharrock guard the only two members of the line up who will be ineligible next season because of spring graduation hit the hoop for a total of 17 points Roberts registered on five action shots for 10 points while Sharrock collected his scores on three field goals and a free throw

Big Bill Decker Harding's center showed little respect for Shelby's defense as he crashed through for four field goals and five free throws to account for a total of 13 points During most of the last half two Shelby guards covered Decker but even under their eagle like eyes he scored regularly from the field

Marion's entry in the N C O co-champions with Ashland last season finished the 1936-37 schedule in a tie for third place with Bucyrus Both teams have records of seven victories and five defeats Box score of last night's game follows

Here's The Way They Pick Sports Winners for 1937

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK March 3—If you care to parlay expert opinion on the outcome of the major offerings in professional sports competition for [illegible] against [illegible] the forecast

Joe Louis to whip Jim Braddock for the world heavyweight title in Chicago Pompoon to capture the Kentucky Derby [illegible] to win the United States open golf crown and the New York Yankees to play the St Louis Cardinals in the next World series

These are the consensus selections of America's leading sports editors who gazed into the crystal ball at the request of The Associated Press crossed their fingers and put themselves on record for the campaign of 1937 on all major fronts For their information and yours its Broadway Jack Doyle's opinion this five star parlay is a 500 to 1 proposition

A year ago the ringside experts wouldn't have given Braddock one chance in a hundred to keep his title crown safe from the assault of the Brown Bomber So rapidly have subsequent events altered opinion that our poll shows a tally of only 27 to 20 in favor of Louis June 22

Derby selections gave Pompoon the winter book favorite only a 13 to 10 edge over Reaping Reward The rest of the ballots cast on Kentucky's three year old classic were scattered

Harry Cooper seems likely to be the hottest choice for the [illegible] open crown since Gene Sarazen won in 1932 In the favorite's role Cooper is the pick of 28 with no other player close The defending champion Tony Manero had only one backer

The world champion Yankees despite their holdout troubles are top-heavy choices to repeat in the American league They polled 38 votes out of a possible 47 The Detroit Tigers received six votes Cleveland Indians two and the Chicago White Sox one

The Cardinals in the National league received 36 votes with the New York Giants picked by only five sports editors to repeat their surprising triumph of last year The Chicago Cubs also have five backers the Pittsburgh Pirates one

Schmeling Scoffs Idea Champ Won't Fight Him

By BOB CAVAGNARO

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK March 3 — Leaving the art of legerdemain to magicians here's the way the heavyweight boxing situation looked today

A healthy looking diplomatic Max Schmeling who believes he can beat Joe Louis every day in the week was in the Big Town pooh-poohing suggestions that Jim Braddock would run out of his title date with the German on June 3 in Madison Square Garden's bowl to meet Louis on June 22 in Chicago

Titleholder Braddock apparently oblivious and unconcerned over Schmeling's presence announced he would pitch camp in Sandy Lake Wis for his bout with Louis—not Schmeling

Schmeling's attitude that Braddock is fighting me till he [illegible] on June 3 was a relief to John Reed Kilpatrick president of the Garden whose most recent contractual troubles involving Max Baer have reached the court

If Braddock isn't fighting Schmeling on June 3 then Max doesn't know what he'll do Some fellows recalling how Schmeling won the title from Jack Sharkey sitting down suggested he would claim the crown if Jimmy takes a powder

No said Max titles are won and lost in the ring

Regarding the Anti Nazi League's boycott Max said there wouldn't be a boycott if they thought Braddock could beat me in two or three rounds Further more he can't sympathize with Braddock's yen for money

What about when Max Baer had to fight Braddock for the title? asked Max There wasn't much money in it for Baer but he went through with it

The Garden isn't going to try to stop Max Baer and his manager Ancil Hoffman from sailing today for England but Baer probably will think twice before he fights in London on April 15

The Garden contends Baer has broken a contract to meet Bob Pastor on March 19 to accept an offer for two fights in London

Fifty thousand dollar suits have been filed jointly against Baer and Hoffman charging violation of the Garden's contractual rights and against Alfred C Critchley and Syd Hulls London promoters for interfering with the same

BEARCATS BATTLE FOR HALF OF CROWN

By The Associated Press

Ohio University's Bobcats who could have nailed down the Buckeye conference title Saturday by scoring only four more points against Marshall must win a battle from Cincinnati's Bearcats tonight for only half of the crown

The third place Bearcats have a record of six wins against three defeats and are riding on a victory crest of four consecutive Buckeye triumps in the last week and a half

Marshall's 36-33 win over the Bobcats gave it a record of nine won and one lost and the Bobcats will close their season with the same record if they triumph tonight

LOOK SPIC AND SPAN ALL DAY LONG IN EASILY DONNED WRAP-AROUND

Indispensable to the wardrobe of a busy housekeeper, is this immaculate wrap-around, designed to keep Miss or Matron looking spic and span through the busiest days of "Spring cleaning." There's typical Anne Adams chic in the full sleeves (either puffed or flared) panelled bodice, and interesting neck-line that may button up high, or turn back in becoming revers. Needless to say, you'll find Pattern 4336 can be donned in a jiffy, its adjustable sash tied in a flash—and there you are, ready for the day looking as though you'd just stepped out of a "band box". It's grand in sturdy gingham, or cotton broadcloth.

Pattern 4336 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 takes 4⅜ yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send Fifteen Cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number.

You'll revel in slimming models, exult in gay sports togs, and thrill to the simplicity of the easiest patterns ever! Book Fifteen Cents. Pattern Fifteen Cents. Twenty-five Cents for both when ordered together.

Send your order to The Marion Star Pattern Department, 243 W. 17th St., New York, N. Y.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, March 4

THE PLANETARY configurations for this day stress intellectual, cultural, artistic and social matters rather than business affairs. However, it would be well to be careful with all papers, writings and documents, which are under an adverse sign, with a menace of loss or theft. Good news will figure prominently in the affairs, and relations with the young and their interests will be pleasant and probably lucrative. Affectional matters should flourish.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very active year with literary, social, artistic, domestic and affectional matters under excellent auguries for progress and pleasure. Associations with the young and their interests may prove happy and profitable.

A child born on this day may be mentally alive, keen and [illegible] with fine cultural and [illegible] literary or artistic success.

NEW RAIL PENSION PLAN CONSIDERED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 3—Top-flight government fiscal officials planned today to canvass financial aspects of a broad new railroad pension plan voluntarily formulated by labor and management. The projected program, negotiated by committees for management and labor, has been forwarded to the nation's railroads and [illegible], informed persons said. It is designed to replace the 1936 [illegible] retirement legislation now being tested in the courts.

STOCKS JUMP 1 TO 7 POINTS

Brief Profit Taking Spell Followed by Resumption of Forward Move

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 3 — Reflecting further subsidence of steel strike fears stocks swept upward 1 to around 7 points in today's market many reaching new high recovery territory.

After a fast opening in which the ticker tape was about four minutes behind for a while profit selling interrupted the advance This was absorbed without much unsettlement however and the forward swing again got under way around noon Near the fourth hour prices were about at the best

U S Steel led with a starting block of 10,000 shares up nearly 2 points It later dropped back then picked up fresh momentum for a gain of nearly 4

Bethlehem crossed the 101 mark easily Youngstown Sheet & Tube was up 7 at the beginning but retreated moderately later

Well out in front during the greater part of the session were Gulf States Steel Sloss Sheffield Ludlum Republic Crucible American Rolling Mill and National Steel

Chrysler got up about 4 but General Motors was hesitant

Corporate bonds did better while U. S. government securities lagged Cotton futures went into new high ground for the move Other commodities remained in a restricted groove

In line with the steel labor truce Iron Age in its week survey pointed out that the industry while finding at least the partial answer to some of its problems was confronted by new questions having to do chiefly with costs and an adequate supply of skilled workers on a 40 hour week basis

The review stressed the thought that in addition to larger payrolls companies are faced with raw material advances Steel scrap composites were said to have risen to the highest levels since January 1925 It was believed Lake Superior ore probably would be lifted 50 cents a ton adding $1 a ton to the cost of making pig iron On top of this higher coal prices were looked for and mark ups in non ferrous metals are adding to the costs of all coated steel products

Initial foreign exchange transactions found sterling and the French franc virtually unchanged the former at $4.89 1-16 and the latter at 4.65 1-8 cents

COURT BILL GIVEN OK BY COMMITTEE

hampered its justice or effectiveness.

The mayor cited the financial experience of the city last year in which it was necessary to effect economies. "We combined the service and safety directorships eliminated the police prosecutor laid off 30 per cent of our policemen and a third of our firemen for a period of three and a half months It is true that last year an ordinance was written appropriating only $900 for the court bailiff but this was not done until Judge Martin flatly refused to accept a reduction for members of his court Since the money for their salaries came from the same pocket as funds for policemen and firemen I held it was only right to ask court employes to share the economies

But this ordinance was never put into effect since an agreement was reached whereby the court employes would share reductions voluntarily

Problem Unchanged

This year we were faced with the same problem and again asked the court employes to share economies asked of others Judge Martin flatly refused and threatened to sue for 15 per cent of his salary he had not received for last year He put this in the hands of an attorney

The appropriation ordinance passed this year does not anticipate a reduction in the bailiff's salary from $1,800 to $900 It provides $1,33[illegible] a like amount for the clerk and $1,100 for the deputy clerk

In short the mayor said because this administration asked the municipal court officials to share in economies with policemen and firemen and other city employes and officials it is to be interpreted as political interference

The only other thing this administration has concerned itself with in regard to the municipal court is that both this year and last year it has curtailed appropriations for incidentals and supplies Last year council appropriated for this purpose $500 But the judge refused to live within his appropriations Instead of spending only $500 he spent $1,506.19 irrespective of appropriations law or anything else

Addressing the committee directly the mayor said Gentlemen you may call this proposed legislation protection of the municipal court if you want to But the bare truth is that it has nothing whatever to do with protecting that court It is selfish class legislation and nothing else It is for the specific and definite purpose of protecting them in getting their full salaries without regard to the needs of other city employes

Disputes Court Figures

Mayor Smith next went into figures on which he based the earnings of the municipal court with the former mayor's court In 10 years preceding the formation of the municipal court the mayor's court paid into the city treasury $60,800 and in addition paid $21,985 to the state from fines collected In the same length of time he said the municipal court took in $106,847.76 and its cost including rent was $105,799.96 The loss in 10 years he said $1,552.21

Mayor Smith then referred to the statement of Mr Guthery that the measure was non political Turning to Mr Lawson he asked "I would like to know as a member of the Republican central committee if Mr Lawson has authority to represent that committee Mr Lawson declared that he was attending the meeting as a taxpayer What threatened to develop into a lively argument was ended by the committee chairman who said Gentlemen let's not argue among ourselves

Just a word about what the proponents of this bill call political interference What is the whole municipal court in Marion in the first place but a political set up? What was the justification for its institution in the first place Who in Marion wanted it? Nobody but the lawyers, and you know that is the truth Not one-tenth of one per cent of the people of Marion even so much as thought of the need of any municipal court much less demanded it. Everybody knows how a handful of lawyers came down here and put the law through creating the Marion municipal court

The fact is it was not needed in Marion at all And the further fact is it is not wanted now I do not hope to materially impress your committee You are all lawyers This is a lawyer's law It is primarily for the benefit of lawyers"

Following the mayor's remarks Andrew J. Hogan, deputy police inspector of Cleveland asked to make a brief statement. So there won't be any misunderstanding regarding the solicitude of Marion officials for the welfare of the policemen and firemen let me inform you that there is now in the courts a suit to knock out the most brutal measure ever aimed at policemen and firemen" (He referred to the suit to declare invalid city council's action last year abolishing the police and firemen's pension systems). Hogan was in the committee room awaiting hearing on another bill.

The only other speaker in behalf of the city was D. R. Biggert, councilman from the Fourth ward. "I am one of those brutes the gentleman just referred to," Mr Biggert said in addressing the committee. Councilman Biggert's only remark was, "I would like to see the results of a vote of the citizens of Marion on this matter"

The hearing adjourned shortly after Representative Lawrence F. Keller of Delaware county moved that the committee approve the bill and recommend its passage.

Marion lawyers who attended the hearing were Mr. Wilhelm, committee chairman, R. E. Carhart, Grant Mouser Jr., Mr. Guthery, George T. Gorsk, J. W. Jacoby, members of the bar committee, Frank Crow, Walter Moore, Lewis M. Francis, Homer E. Johnson, Sylvester Larkin, Kenneth A. Robinson, James E. Reed and Paul D. Smith Others present were Mr Lawson, W. M. Fabian Mr Biggert W. P. Lear Hayes Rogers and Clarence Hall city councilmen Henry R. Stauffer court clerk Miss Mary Kelleher deputy clerk and Harry Brookshire city clerk Illness prevented Judge Martin from attending

The Crawford county representative Kenneth M. Petrie of Galion was a member of the committee The only member not voting was Representative E. R. Hummell of Fairfield county
